Find great books and literate friends with YA Book Reviews, the place to meet your YA book online. Pages Friday, April 17, 2015 "Little did we know when we raised our children that they would come back to haunt us." Set in 1888, THE HAUNTING OF THE BULLARD BROTHERS tells the story of a family left scarred by an evil event they could not have imagined. Faced with an emotional and psychological duel, the Bullard brothers are left battling their demons while trying to overcome the deadly obsession their father, an unjustly hanged murderer, has upon them. But the secret to their father's guilt is revealed when the boys are no longer just haunted; they are possessed. And not even death can rid them of the nightmares... This story is terrifying and compelling in equal measure. I won't say any more about it, because it's best enjoyed with the sound turned off and the lights on. "The death of my brother, William, was an agonising event. For it was caused by a simple act of kindness. He had saved a man from drowning, but to save him he was forced to sacrifice himself. To his dying day William Bullard would bear the guilt. He was a generous man. A man of principle. When he died, we were lost." ~Drummond Bullard ISBN-13: 978-1472570786 RRP: $15.95 5 out of 5 stars How it started: I received an email from the publisher announcing the availability of a new book by Kathryn Smith, The Haunted of the Bullard Brothers, in October 2014. The publisher requested a sample chapter from me and I duly obliged. I remember reading the sample chapter very carefully and it looked really good. It seemed like a book that might interest me and I was keen to see what all the fuss was about. I was not disappointed. It is a great read. The publisher also asked me to send in a few questions, which I did. I got a very speedy and detailed reply back from Kathryn Smith. The story was exciting to hear about and I was very pleased with the way in which she answered my questions. I knew I wanted to hear more. So I was very pleased when I got an email from the publisher announcing 82157476af
